2019-2020 SCHOLARSHIP CONTRACT

ADVISING REQUIREMENT

Tracking your progress with your academic advisor is imperative in order to stay on track toward graduation. For help determining who your advisor is, contact the Academic Advising Center at 303-556-2481. Your advisor's name and email address are also available through your CCDConnect account under the DegreeWorks button.

SUPPORT PROGRAM REQUIREMENT

PLEASE NOTE: Choose a program that best fits your needs. You will be required to actively participate in the program prior to your academic advisor signing your scholarship contract. Therefore, it is better to join the program of your choice as soon as you learn you have been offered a scholarship.

TRIO Student Support Services (SSS)

Cherry Creek Building, Room 137 | 303.352.TRIO CCD.edu/JoinTRIO

Provides services that include academic guidance, tutoring and skills development, financial aid and financial planning assistance, transfer assistance, career development, peer mentoring, social and cultural activities, and referral to campus and community resources throughout your career at CCD. TRIO SSS students must be overcoming an educational obstacle such as limited income, first generation to attend college, or disability.

Academic Advising & Student Success Center (AASSC)

Cherry Creek Building, Room 141 | 303.352.6964 | CCD.edu/Advising

The Academic Advising and Student Success Center houses several programs, all designed to provide you with wrap-around support services, which include one-on-one intrusive academic advising, coaching, professional and leadership development and a variety of workshops focusing on academic, financial and personal wellness. Programs like the Urban Male Initiative (UMI) and Women Intentional about Success and Excellence (WISE) are two student support programs offered. These programs are open to all students.

DSF/COSI Scholars

DSF and DSF COSI scholarship recipients' as well as DSF SEED program participants will participate in success programming with your academic advisor that fulfills the program requirement for additional institutional scholarships you may be awarded.

2019-2020 SCHOLARSHIP CONTRACT

Urban Male Initiative (UMI)

CCD.edu/UMI

UMI provides relevant experiences for male students to ensure academic success, professional growth and social maturity in the areas of education, leadership, career exposure, social awareness and community involvement. Students in UMI are expected to meet with their academic advisor on a regular basis and actively participate in the program.

Women Intentional about Success & Excellence (WISE)

CCD.edu/WISE

Designed to facilitate professional and leadership development for women, WISE seeks to enhance the overall educational experience through one-on-one coaching, a series of workshops, panel discussions and guest speakers as well as opportunities to build community, network and participate in service learning/volunteer projects. Students in the WISE program are expected to actively participate in the program and meet with their academic advisor on a regular basis.

KEYS

CCD.edu/KEYS

Available only to KEYS scholars, this program is designed to assist displaced homemakers in becoming self-sufficient. A displaced homemaker is an individual who had been dependent on another household member's income and has lost that primary source of income. For more information, contact Crystal Hernandez, the KEYS scholarship coordinator, at 303.352.3342.

HSI-STEM SIRVIENDO

Science Building, Suite 1006 | 303.352.6915 | CCD.edu/HSI-STEM

Supports Hispanic/Latinx and/or low-income STEM students (i.e., those working on science, technology, engineering, and math degrees, does not include health sciences) who plan to transfer to a four-year college or university. HSI-STEM Sirviendo Scholars receive personalized assistance to identify career goals and develop educational plans to reach them.

Warren Village

WarrenVillage.org

Available only to Warren Village residents and alumni. Warren Village is a transformational self-sufficiency program for single parents and their families. Warren Village offers affordable housing, case management, life-skills programming resources, referrals, and on-site student support services for greater academic success. Students working with Warren Village are expected to meet with their family advocate on a regular basis, actively participate in the self-sufficiency program, and provide a copy of academic transcripts on an annual basis. Your family advocate can sign this form.

2019-2020 SCHOLARSHIP CONTRACT

DREAMers United

Be part of an active community group that offers support along with volunteer opportunities so its members can positively impact society. Within the semester, students will be expected to attend monthly meetings and be involved in activities like high school visits, special events, etc. See their Facebook page: DreamersUnitedSO, for more information and to get involved.

WORKSHOP/EOC REQUIREMENT

Student Success Workshops

CCD offers many different workshops on student success and money smarts each month. Topics include financial planning, searching for scholarships, study skills, and professional development. To view schedule and to RSVP, call 303.352.6964 or visit CCD.edu/Workshops.

TRIO - Educational Opportunity Center (EOC)

The TRIO-EOC offers many services to help you succeed, including career exploration counseling, student financial aid advising, FAFSA assistance, financial literacy information, and assistance with scholarship searches. Educational access specialists can assist you in identifying or redefining career goals through the use of career interest inventories. Job and earnings outlook information may also be discussed, depending on your individual needs. To schedule an appointment to meet with an educational access specialist, call 303. 352.TRIO.

Disclaimer

If there are special circumstances that may inhibit you from attending one of the above workshops to fulfill this requirement, email Scholarships@ccd.edu with details of your situation. A committee will review your case to determine if you qualify for an alternate option.
