2020-2021 PARENT TAX FILING STATUS

S#: _____

What was the tax filing status your parents reported on their 2018 federal income tax return?

Check one:

- ☐ Single or Qualifying Widow ☐ Head of Household
- ☐ Did not file and not required to file ☐ Married Filing Jointly
- ☐ Married Filing Separately – Both of your parents' 2018 income must be reported on your FAFSA.
- ☐ Check here if one or both of your parents earned $0 in 2018.
- ☐ Other: _____

If your parents' marital status on the FAFSA does not match their tax filing status, attach a signed letter that explains why your parents were allowed to use that filing status given their marital status. Generally, married individuals may not file taxes as Head of Household.

- Your parents may be required to amend their 2018 federal tax return or make corrections to your 2020-2021 FAFSA at FAFSA website before your FAFSA can be processed.
- For help determining what your parents' filing status should be, visit the What Is My Filing Status webpage and complete the online interview.

If you made a mistake on your 2020-2021 FAFSA or if your parents filed their 2018 taxes incorrectly and you/your parents have already made the necessary corrections, please select the appropriate option below (select only one):

- ☐ My parents filed their 2018 federal taxes incorrectly but they have updated their taxes to reflect their correct marital status.*

Attach a signed copy of your parents' amended 2018 federal tax return (IRS Tax Form 1040X) as well as their original signed federal tax return*

- ☐ I filed my 2020-2021 FAFSA incorrectly but have updated it to reflect my parents' correct marital status and/or their correct tax filing status. *

 Allow one week after you make corrections to your FAFSA for our office to verify this change. If you have not corrected your FAFSA after one week, this form will be made incomplete.*

Important: Any time you make a change to your FAFSA, we may be required to collect additional information from you and/or your parent(s). We will email your CCD student email address to notify you of your next steps and to inform you if any additional information is required.
