

Community College of Denver Creative Services Wins Paragon Award

Press Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

April 15, 2014

(Denver, CO) The Creative Services team of Community College of Denver (CCD) has won two Paragon Awards for design for 2013 from the National Council for Marketing & Public Relations (NCMPR). Designer Gretchen Occhionero's entries of "Dark Play or Stories for Boys," a poster created in collaboration with j. nick dickert, assistant professor of Theater at CCD, received a gold award and "Student Stand-Up," a poster created in collaboration with Adam Glick, chair of Communication at CCD, received a silver award.

The National Paragon Awards competition recognizes excellence in communications exclusively among two-year colleges.

Creative Services at CCD is comprised of Sue Samuelson, director; Gretchen Occhionero, designer; and Quynh Pham, associate designer.

Community College of Denver (CCD) is a leading point of entry to higher education for the City and County of Denver. CCD provides a cost effective college education, along with access and opportunity for non-traditional students, workforce development and training resources for local organizations, and community partnerships. For more information, visit www.CCD.edu Information on occupations, rates for completion and placement, program costs and median loan debt can be found at www.ccd.edu/gainfulemployment