

Community College of Denver Architectural Technologies becomes ACSA affiliated

Press Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

April 29, 2014

(Denver, CO) Community College of Denver (CCD) Architectural Technologies program has become an affiliate member of the American Collegiate Schools of Architecture (ACSA). ACSA is a nonprofit membership organization founded in 1912 to advance the quality of architectural education. A community of over 250 member schools nationwide, it has become a forum to exchange ideas in architectural education and encourage dialog on the issues facing the profession and education.

CCD is the only community college in Colorado to become affiliated with ACSA.

For the professional architect, Community College of Denver (CCD) provides Professional Development Certificates designed to help practicing professionals prepare to take the Architectural Registration Exam or simply develop their skill set or increase their knowledge base to pursue advancement in the profession. Courses are taught by licensed architects.

Community College of Denver (CCD) is a leading point of entry to higher education for the City and County of Denver. CCD provides a cost effective college education, along with access and opportunity for non-traditional students, workforce development and training resources for local organizations, and community partnerships. For more information, visit www.CCD.edu Information on occupations, rates for completion and placement, program costs and median loan debt can be found at www.ccd.edu/gainfulemployment