Our goal is to use the conduct process as a tool for educating the student on personal conduct, ethical reasoning, and community responsibility. We will treat each case individually and each student with respect. We will involve the entire community in a culture of conversation, where reporting is a natural byproduct of a sincere commitment to the safety, security, and learning environment of the campus.

The Code of Conduct for the Community College of Denver coincides with the Colorado Community College System policy on Student Disciplinary Procedure. According to CCCS policy SP 4-30, students are expected to adhere to the Student Code of Conduct and policies and procedures of the college.

For the full version of the Student Code of Conduct please visit www.ccd.edu/studentcode.

College education a ticket out of poverty

For Americans raised in the lowest 20 percent of income, a college education offered a way out and a way up. Ninety percent of adults with a college education moved out of the lowest quintile, and 53 percent moved into the middle class or above. Almost three-quarters of adults who did not attend college remained below middle class.
