

DR. MATTHEW M. LUNN

ADVISORY BOARD MEMBER, COMMUNITY COLLEGE OF DENVER

Dr. Matthew M. Lunn serves as a member of the Community College of Denver (CCD) Advisory Council, bringing deep expertise in strategic planning, organizational innovation, and data-driven evaluation. He is the Manager of Strategic Initiatives for the Denver Police Department, where he leads efforts to develop and implement both short- and long-term goals that enhance efficiency, effectiveness, and community trust.

Dr. Lunn holds a Ph.D. from the University of Colorado Colorado Springs and is a graduate of the Police Executive Research Forum's Senior Management Institute for Police. His research focuses on use of force, program evaluation, and organizational effectiveness, helping law enforcement agencies apply evidence-based practices that improve operations and strengthen relationships with the communities they serve.

As an Advisory Council member, Dr. Lunn contributes his strategic insight and systems-level thinking to support CCD's mission of empowering students, fostering workforce innovation, and advancing equitable educational opportunities across Denver.
